1. [REDACTED] of OTR visited me on 1 February 1967 to discuss the mechanics of paying [REDACTED] STATINTL for the editing of the book in investigative sources of information compiled by [REDACTED] under a Brookings Fellowship. I retrieved from the files the attached papers, and asked [REDACTED] to take STATINTL part in the discussion.

2. After [REDACTED] of OTR's B&F Branch, he advised that [REDACTED] prepare a certification that he had worked the hours of overtime necessary to edit the book; the certification would be endorsed by [REDACTED] and forwarded to B&F Branch, OTR. Barring unforeseen developments, this procedure should allow payment of [REDACTED] claim.

3. Subsequent to my discussion of the above with you, I conferred with [REDACTED] regarding payment for the printing of Mr. [REDACTED] book. He is aware that certain costs were determined for printing and binding the book in various ways. I contacted [REDACTED] TINTL Logistics Branch, and alerted him to have ready any documentation on this matter so that confusion may be avoided when the question of payment arises. He has the cost figures and requisitions readily available.
